LONGBOAT IN THE CELLS

(Special to the Chronicle)
Hamilton, June 17.—Longboat, the Indian runner, who was suddenly hauled into lane, has contracted the fever habit. He is now in the cells on a charge of being drunk and disorderly. He resisted arrest and the police had a hard struggle to get him in.

Didn't Have The Money.

Last week Joe McClelland was fined $1 and costs, amounting altogether to about $5.00, on ten days hard labor, for having too much fire water aboard. As he did not have the necessary money, the magistrate very kindly allowed him to get out and procure it. At the expiration of the time limit, Mr. McClelland could not be found, but was located shortly afterwards in Edmonton. This morning Co. Harris arrested him and brought him back to Regina. He was still of the opinion that he could get the coin and stated that he took a taxi and entered the hotel, but could not find the money. He was then taken to the police station and a search was made, but the money was not found. Harris captured him near the force's new hotel and this time brought him back to the "coop." He has at last decided to take the ten days and will leave for his new address this afternoon.

CHRONICLES.

The roof of a building in Calgary fell the other day and the noise was equal to that made by a dealer when a fair offer is made for a piece of real estate.

Minister Inspector Norman Fraser makes a fairly good long distance record. He returned to the Minister and Deputy Minister of Public Works talk some.

A Seattle party has gone in search of the North Pole. It is not recorded that it got its ideas of what supplies are necessary from Capt. Bernier, of Arctic fame.

The wife of the man that Orchard murdered hopes the murderer will be given a chance to lead a good life. So do the rest of the world-kind of good life that a good Indian leads.

A man in Germany is under arrest for murdering his mother-in-law. He probably became a degenerate as the result of attending the cheap shows where the mother-in-law is the stock-in-trade of the jockeys.

The new Deputy Minister of Public Works of Manitoba is named Dancer. If you want a contract in that province it will be a case of either Dancer or pay the adder.

Storm in Manitoba.

Grinwald, Man., June 16.—The worst electrical storm, ever known in this district, passed over here this morning. It was accompanied by a regular tornado of wind and rain. Nearly all the board fences and metal chimneys are down. All the crops on the C.N.R. construction were flattened out and a lot of supplies spoiled.

Disarmament Impossible.

The Hague, June 16.—M. Nelidoff opened the second international peace congress on Saturday by affirming that universal peace and disarmament were unattainable. The deliberate utterances by the Russian statesman although possibly intended to excite the delegates, were hopeful when he later said he believed that a better method for the judicial adjustment of disputes was possible, even though all conflicts between nations were no more avoidable than the course of the river. During the course of his address M. Nelidoff greatly pleased the American delegates by the high tribute which he paid to President Roosevelt and Andrew Carnegie. He did not mention any other countries or rulers.

Athabasca In Flood.

Athabasca Landing, June 16.—Owing to the late and rapid melting of the snow in the mountains the rising of the river has come this year with unprecedented suddenness. Heavy masses of driftwood have collected on the ferry cables and every moment the cable threatens to part or pull loose from its moorings.

This morning Arthur Benson's canoe was overturned in the river, and the unfortunate man was drowned. He was well known and highly respected.

Cars Fell Into Niagara Falls.

Niagara Falls, N. Y., June 16.—Early Saturday three freight cars broke from a train of fourteen cars in the middle of the lower street car bridge and plunged into the rapids 250 feet below. In leaving the track they damaged both the upper and lower decks of the bridge to a considerable extent. When they struck the water they were not badly damaged, but the cars were rapidly carried down to the whirl pool where they were broken into pieces. A brakeman had a narrow escape.

Drowned In Red River.

Winnipeg, June 16.—Clarence Flecken, June 16.—Clarence Flecken, a young man, aged twenty-four years, was drowned this afternoon in the Red River while out canoeing with a companion. A high wind was blowing against the current and consequently high waves swamped the canoe and it is believed that he was unable to swim. He resided in Newwood suburb. The body has not been recovered.

Testifies Against Schmitz.

San Francisco, June 15.—When the trial of Mayor Schmitz was resumed at Alameda Hall on the stand, the court overruled the objection of the defense to the question that was pending when the court adjourned yesterday. The question was "Did you, in January, 1905, in the house at 2949 Filmore street, give this defendant, Eugene K. Schmitz, $2,500 in currency?"

Rud replied in the affirmative. He said he told the mayor that he had, in January, 1906, given $1,500 to Schmitz, telling him the restaurant men had paid a second installment of $3,000.

Both these teams have only been defeated once and the winner of tonight's contest has good prospects of winning the league championship. The locals will line up as follows—

ANOTHER WINNIPEG FATALITY.

Roosevelt Asked To Intervene.

Chicago, June 16.—Roosevelt was asked this afternoon to intervene in the threatened telegraphers' strike to prevent general paralysis throughout the country, which would be detrimental to business interests universally. The board of trade and commercial interests of Chicago forwarded the request.

Deceased Was Careless.

Frank, June 16.—The adjourned inquest at Coleman on the body of Jan Ebers was concluded yesterday when the jury brought in a verdict of accidental death through carelessness on the part of the deceased. It appears, discovered by the jury, that the deceased had started a blocked chute with his feet instead of using other means, he lost his hold and was carried down the chute and was buried in the coal.

Sheepmen Killing Cattle.

Medicine Hat, June 15.—Bergant Allen, R.N.W.M.P., has reported from the border that a large number of Canadian cattle have been shot down by American sheep ranchers north of Wild Horse Lake. A herd of the number of 150 were the last victims. They were shot on Milk River. Active steps are under way for a thorough investigation.

C. O. F. And S. O. E. B. S. Parade.

Mine Changes Hands.

Free Press.—It is understood that P. T. Thornton, of Brandon, formerly of Winnipeg, has completed the purchase of the Wilcox coal mine at Taber, Alta., from J. A. Blue, for $250,000. It is stated that Mr. Thornton will leave at once with G. S. Wyman and a mining expert to examine his new purchase. J. A. Blue, who is in the city, would not make a statement regarding the transaction, but did not deny that the deal has taken place.

Commons And Lords.

London, June 15.—The following is the text of the resolution on the subject of the House of Lords, which House of Commons will move in the House of Lords on June 24th.

"That in order to give effect to the will of the people as expressed by their elected representatives, it is necessary that the power of the House of Commons to alter or reject bills passed by this House should be no restricted, and that the debate on the question of the House of Lords will last three or four days and will prove one of the most interesting of the session."

The proceeds of the collection, after expenses are deducted, will be devoted towards the memorial which it is proposed to erect to the miners who lost their lives in the recent and disaster.

Synod and Race Track Gambling.

Toronto, June 16.—This synod is of the opinion that race track gambling should be illegal and urges upon the government of the Dominion the advisability of taking such steps as may be necessary to secure this end. It was the form of a motion made by Canon Welsh at the closing session of the Anglican synod yesterday afternoon. "I mention race track gambling," said Canon Welsh, "because this form of vice is being strongly condemned by other denominations and the English church desires to get in line with them. It is necessary for the law to be amended as its present form is altogether too vague."

Slipped Under Street Car.

Winnipeg, June 16.—P. Schneider, a young man whose home is on Pacific Avenue, was killed in a horrible manner on Saturday night while attempting to board a Park Line car in front of the Commercial Club on Main street. He tried to get on the step of the first two trailers which were jammed by close packed cars when he slipped under the trucks and the following trailers passed over mangled him in a fatal manner. One of the legs being cut off, and was carried almost a mile before it was known that it was there.

Coal Commission At Banff.

Banff, June 16.—The miners employed at Banff presented their views to the coal commission on Saturday. They made the now time-worn suggestions of a compensation act and eight hour day, giving the usual reasons to support their contention that these laws would be beneficial to the mine and not injurious to the employers. In discussing the compensation act, one of the miners declared that the owners of the Cammore mine did not even bear the funeral expenses when a miner was killed. The men charged that the passage of an eight-hour law would compel the owners to furnish transportation in and out of the mine so much so that as at present the commission has decided to hold a meeting at Edmonton to get the views of operators and miners there.

Quebec, June 16.—A shocking drowning fatality is reported at Hallowell Cove, Saguenay County. Several canoes filled with workmen started to cross above the falls. CURRENT COMMENT.

A WOLF FROM THE NORTH.

(Toronto Globe.)

In view of the interest in the question of the Doukhobor lands revived by the throwing open for settlement of certain of their homesteads in Saskatchewan fortified by failure to perform the duties required by the homestead regulations, the following editorial comment from the Winnipeg Telegram is timely and appropriate: In what degree the Department of the Interior is blame-worthy in its actions regarding the Doukhobors who have made their homes in Canada will probably never be known. There is little doubt that these Doukhobors believe they were led to believe, that their unique communal systems, both as regards the holding of lands and other questions, would be respected. They came to Canada apparently on that understanding, took up their homesteads in the West and their almost even action showed that the impression that the various inhabitants of their villages should hold their land in common, was profound.

Such a system was a national and economic impossibility if the West were to progress in the lines of progress held down by the spirit of British law and Canadian social and industrial institutions. The communal system regarding the free lands of Western Canada crying for actual settlement and cultivation was an anachronism that could not exist. And the lands of the Doukhobors have been thrown for settlement and the followers of Peter Verigin, the Russian patriot and exile, will take that part of the world known as Western Canada as they find it, not as they in their primitive dreams of a Utopia desire it.

Strangely mingled must be the feelings of the Doukhobors of our West as they watch others clanking to make formal entries for the lands they desired would be the scene of the idyllic life they fled from oppression and crossed the seas to find. Strange indeed must be the feelings of their leader, the first masterful embodiment of manhood, Peter Verigin, the Russian patriot and martyr, who probably conceived the dream that has vanished during the long Siberian exile, and which the alluring rates of the immigrant agent led him to believe he could put in practice in the practical Canadian West. The destiny of the West would not permit the dreams of an altruist to stand in the way of its progress in any part of it seems harsh in the face of the belief that the government of Canada must have assisted in implanting it in his mind.

Among the thousands of immigrants coming to Canada are a few—fortunately a very few—men who are in a class by themselves, and who might be designated by the term "chronic knockers." Some slight twist in their nature, or perhaps a disordered liver, prevents them from seeing things in a proper light, and they are always looking on the dark side. One member of this class can find more defects in the conditions and climate here than fifty persons possessing normal minds. He comes to this country and hears of the hard winter and forgets that had as were the conditions here they were much worse in the country he has just left. A shower or two of rain falls, and he jumps to the conclusion that we have a wet climate, not knowing that, though drought is unknown, the average annual rainfall does not greatly exceed the amount necessary to grow crops. A cloudy day gives him the idea that the sun never shines upon the land that justly bears the title "Sunny Alberta." He writes to his friends or to the newspaper in his home town condemning this country, and regretting having come here. If he but took the trouble, he would find that in spite of the hard winter, and late spring, the crops are fully as far ahead as at this time last year, and there is every prospect of the best crop in the history of the province. Fortunately, as we have said, men of this class are few and far between, and their friends know what value to attach to their reports and opinions but when their outpourings find their way into print and are read by strangers, the case is altered, and reputable newspapers cannot be too careful in dealing with communications of this kind.

The north breeds strong men—men who in physique and in mental equipment can hold their own anywhere. It seems that the North can breed also a species of human wolf, at which the whole world wonders—a man with the treachery of a Nana Sahib and the callousness of a Nero. The present generation has seen no such criminal as Alfred Horley, who eleven years ago was living in a peaceful little village of Northumberland county, with but one bad man's against him in public estimation; that he was tricky in his dealings.

The wolf nature was there, no doubt, but Horley had still a grip of himself. He had a loving wife, whom he had loved while both worked in the neighborhood cheese factory. He had a bright little girl baby. He had been a Sunday school teacher and president of the local Elworth League. He came of Quaker stock, and his family connections were unimpeachable.

If ever outward circumstances indicated a peaceful, uneventful existence Alfred Horley seemed destined to leave the world an honored citizen after a useful life. Yet one day he rose from his bed, and, looking around him, said, Lucifer-like, "Evil be thou my good." He deserted his wife and stole another man's. He is alleged to have burned his cheese factory for the insurance—less than $100. Then he went west, and with the wolf nature waiting strong began to seek his prey. He asserts that he became the married assassin of eighteen persons. That he slew them is beyond question. The jury at Boise must settle the responsibility.

He is said to have repented and become a changed man. Does the wolf become a lamb in captivity? The latest example of the wolf nature in Horley is his revelation of his real name and relationships. The sisters and the brother who played with him in the happy days of childhood must have been spared this shame. No one in Canada knew who "Orchard" was. Yet with the cruelty that only a human wolf could know he says: "Yes, I'm the greatest murderer of the age; these are my sisters and this is my brother."

That last infamy of Horley is as vulgar as the bomb at Steenbarg's gate. It is hoped the people of Northumberland and the press of Ontario will spare the feelings of the relatives of this crew of criminals, and not pursue them with the searchlight of publicity.

PREDICTS VANCOUVER'S DOWNFALL

Mayor Bethune, of Vancouver, recently received the following telegram:

To the Governor, Vancouver, B. C.: "Come out soon and bring the people. There will be a tidal wave and mountain eruptions. I predicted the 'Prisco' disaster, the wreck of the Valencien, and the loss of the Dakota." prophetic Marguerite (Mrs. William Albright.)

The warning is endorsed by Mrs. Irene Madison, Sta. O. South E. Seattle, Washington, and Miss Francis Myrtle Madison.

It is said Mrs. Albright did predict the wreck of the Valencia. She was living in Vancouver then and between times she ran a porkpie shop in old English style.

The Railways and the People.

Little more than three years have gone by since the Railway Commission was created in Canada, and one may reasonably say that the time is too short in which to expect that body to have accomplished much. The Railway Commission dealing with problems exclusively modern, and rapidly changing; on these questions the experience of mankind throws no light. It was in 1867--only twenty years ago, that the first attempt was made in the United States to regulate the railways by law and government. Previous to that time the generally accepted view was that railways were the property of the company that controlled it; that they would run it as they chose, charge whatever rates they liked, while the only recourse of the people was to secure competition between rival companies. Along those lines the people made no headway, because it was found that "where consolidation is possible competition is impossible." But it took twenty years of agitation to bring about an assertion by government of a right of control over public carriers in the United States, and after the assertion of authority had been made, it has taken another twenty years to secure the passage of an Act (the Hepburn Bill of 1905) making that control at all effective so that the fairness and equality of freight rates are enforced in the courts.

One of the most instructive and interesting books I have read for a long time is "Railway Problems," edited and supplied with long and able introduction by Prof. William Z. Ripley, Professor of Economics at Harvard University (Olin & Co., Boston). This volume traces the railway problems with a fulness that leaves little to be desired, and men who wish to be abreast of the times will find the work a gold mine. Prof. Ripley is not a sensationalist, but a serious historian and economist. He shows where the railway problems come from and where they now stand. For instance, he tells us from 1889 to 1903 the domestic population of the United States increased one-third; the railway mileage increased one-third; but the amount of freight carried surpassed that growth five times over. In 1880 the tons of freight carried one mile aggregated 68,700,000,000. The figures are rather beyond comprehension, but they show the increase in the volume of freight hauled. It is not surprising that governments have failed to devise means of regulating a traffic so vast as the railways; experts themselves have been devoted by the rapid development and the interminable network of complications that arise in their gigantic operations.

When the government right to supervise was asserted in 1887 the idea was that competition must be enforced somehow, and so pooling of rates was prohibited. The author believes that this led to great considerations. He thinks that pooling of rates will presently be insisted on "under Government supervision." This is the practice in England.

The Canadian Board of Railway Commissioners," he says, "combines all the powers of the English commission with those vested in the British Board of Trade. There is conferred a concentration of power over rates, both in England and Canada, besides which even our amended law of 1905 appears pale and colorless. Altogether the British experience is highly suggestive in all that concerns government regulation." Evidently the Railway Commission in Canada has power; all it needs is the skill and the nerve to enforce it.

They have had in the United States the same problems we have had here, and have had them in more aggravated form. They have had discrimination in rates in favor of some companies and in favor of some shipping points. The law against rebates was last year evaded in various ways. One ingenious scheme was, where a corporation owned a terminal line, the receipt of this line of an undue share of the through rate for a nominal service. The International Salt Company, the United States Steel Corporation, and the International Harvester Company were detected in the utilization of this device. The "midnight tariff" was another plan whereby a low tariff was published but for one day only in connection with Minneapolis milling, and only shippers warned and prepared in advance could take advantage of the low rates. Right along, too, the old plan of paying back a part of the freight was being practiced. The Standard Oil Company was found to be enjoying a preference over all competitors on railways in every part of the country.

It was shown that on boats, buttons and buttons shipped from Liverpool via New Orleans to San Francisco, the freight charge was $1.07 per hundred pounds, while the freight on the same goods from New Orleans to San Francisco was $2.88. In another case it was shown that tin-plate was carried from Liverpool to Philadelphia and on to Chicago for 24c, while the same goods from Philadelphia to Chicago alone cost 26c. In some cases the combined charge for freight and duty on foreign goods was actually less than the freight alone on domestic goods. In other words the nation may impose a duty but the railways may take it off. The explanation of it is that the ocean steamers must have return freight from Europe, but in order to do this they require to have cheap haulage on the railways. Thus, the public carriers, at their pleasure, can alter the tariff. We have had experience of this in Canada.

Prof. Ripley surveys the whole question in his introduction, and then gives able articles by other writers on the various problems of railroad. Hon. Charles Francis Adams writes the amazing story of the early days of the Erie railway, when the great battle was fought between Commodore Vanderbilt and Daniel Drew, Jay Gould and Fisk. The railway end of the story of Standard Oil is told by Ida M. Tarbell and the story of the building of the Union Pacific is given by Henry Kirke White. Other chapters are devoted to the long and short haul, the theory of rates, the trunk line rate system and the other problems of carrying business. It is such a book as a man must read in these days to round out his education.

H. H. Crawford conducted a successful auction sale for Alex. Edwards at Stony Plain on Saturday. He disposed of fifty-one head of cattle in less than an hour and twenty minutes. Prices were high, ranging from $10 to $21 for common milch cows. Mr. Crawford states that the crops are looking well, although several of the farmers are still busy seeding.

"Scotty" Lang, one of East Edmonton's successful farmers, was in the city today. He reports crops in that part of the country looking fine although a little later than last season. Mr. Lang had the misfortune to lose his barn, stable, granary, a quantity of hay and grain, besides several smaller buildings by fire last week. He estimates his loss at $15,000, which is partly insured.

The Sandy Lake school district will hold its annual picnic on June 26. The picnic is an annual event of merit and always draws a large crowd. This year it will be better than ever and the crowd which will surely be in attendance is assured of a splendid outing. It offers an excellent opportunity for folks to meet their friends.

Wetaskiwin Plays Here Tomorrow.

Word has been received that the fast Wetaskiwin baseball team will be here for a game with the Strathcona's tomorrow evening. The Maroons have further strengthened their team by the importation of a new pitcher from Montana and now claim to have the best aggregation playing amateur ball in Alberta. In a game of three weeks ago at Wetaskiwin the locals gave this team a close run, the score being 4-2, and tomorrow hope to take the visitors into camp.

The line up will probably be about as follows—Miller (c), McLaughlin (p), Carmichael (1b), Bailly (2b), Purdy (S. S.), Wiley (3b), Dobson (L. F.), Allen (c. f.), Leland (c. f.).

The catcher, Fred Miller is a New Yorker, having come to Alberta in March. During last year he was at the receiving end for a team on Long Island, and played good ball. He caught at Wetaskiwin in the game three weeks ago.

Joe McLaughlin needs no introduction to amateur ball men of this country. Two years ago he pitched for the First and later for Wetaskiwin. He is at present in Lamont, where he pitches for the local team. Arrangements have been made by the Strathcona's for his services, whenever needed. In five innings played at Strathcona "Joe" struck out seven men.

Ralph Carmichael will hold down first base—His baseball experience extends over several years in Ontario, where he once played against McLaughlin. He plays the initial sack well, but is equally good in the field.

On second will be seen E. H. Hall, ex-captain of the Lethbridge amateurs last year. That Lethbridge is a baseball town may be easily seen from the enthusiasm with which it took up the idea of a professional team. Last year Bailey and his team made a successful trip through Dakota, Montana, and away to the South. The locals consider that they have a fast man in this latest addition to the team.

At short Frank Purdy will be found again this year. Perhaps there is no "sitter" amateur player in this part of the country than Purdy. He comes from Cleveland, one of the greatest ball towns in the East. For three years he held an infield position with the "Gumps" an amateur team of that city and joined the locals about a year ago.

Fred Wiley, the third base man, is a native of Kansas City and has played ball for some twenty years in every part of the state. Formerly he used to catch for his team, but a squinted with about every place in the infield. When Wiley is in good form, to see him perform once is sufficient introduction.

In the outfield Howard Dobson, is the best known to the people of Strathcona. He is getting to be a star here and is always to be found in good clean sport of whatever character. At Wetaskiwin Dobson made three hits for three times at bat. The other outfielders are both newcomers. Al Allen, the centre man having come from Moncton, N. B., and Leland from Cleveland, O. Both are sure to be in the line-up, a quality for a homebased on the age score, but who has been in this country for three years, and who has played ball wherever opportunity offered since he could carry a bat. Last year he pitched for a team about Brandon. Leland was also with the "Gumps" in Cleveland, where he held the second sack for two years. Some little time ago he injured his wrist and cannot throw with his usual ease, but is safe to land on the ball when given a bat.

The game will be played on the Fair Grounds and will be called at 8.45. An admission of 25 cents will be charged to cover the expense of bringing the visitors here.
